

L&G Hydrogen Economy UCITS ETF

An investment strategy focused on the growth potential of hydrogen innovation and technologies in the transition to a lower-carbon world

The ETF will seek to gain exposure to the full hydrogen value chain, consisting of hydrogen producers, fuel-cell manufacturers, mobility providers, fuel-cell component suppliers, key industrial and utility companies, and others in the supply chain.

Investing at the start of the hydrogen revolution

Hydrogen policy and economics are aligned

The combination of low-carbon government policies, technological advances, and cheaper components is facilitating the growth of the hydrogen economy.

Capital is shifting to hydrogen today

Governments and businesses are already investing in hydrogen across a range of markets from heavy transport to alternative heating.

Europe unveils plan to boost hydrogen market in green recovery

- EU Commission presents strategy to channel funds into the fuel
- Clean energy shift is central to EU's economic recovery plans

Bloomberg, July 2020

Green hydrogen is blooming

Industries that already consume hydrogen rely heavily on 'grey' hydrogen (which is produced with fossil fuels without the carbon emissions being captured); policymakers, particularly in Europe, are now encouraging these industries to switch to 'green' hydrogen produced without fossil fuels, which could reduce up to 3% of global CO₂ emissions.

Trillion-dollar potential

The hydrogen economy is expected to be worth $2.5 trillion of revenues and $11 trillion in infrastructure potential by 2050.¹

The time is right to power up hydrogen

- The EU must consider all options if it is to achieve carbon neutrality
